7. Village [redacted] Civilian population was evacuated; about 2,000 army men were stationed there living in tents and in some of the village houses. A former Catholic church was used for officers' mess; enlisted men ate in the open. Most of the village houses (20-25 in number) were damaged from the training. First-aid station was located in one of them.

25X1

[redacted] a large number of military trucks, Tatra make, small cannons, and machine guns around and inside the village.

25X1

8. Ruins of Primda Castle, visible from afar.

II. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

Security: Guards were not posted on road, Point 3; three military guards, armed with machine guns [redacted]

[redacted] entered the military area. One guard, also armed with machine gun, stood at the village entrance.

Morale: Morale among the troops [redacted] was poor, due mostly to permanent confinement to the camp while in training and also because of bad food. Soldiers complained that only officers had good food.

25X1

Miscellaneous: [redacted] about 60% of the enlisted men had their head shaved because of some punishment; however, some shaved their heads because of hot weather.

25X1

[redacted] the men participating in the training area came only from the army and the training's purpose was to strengthen battle preparedness. Training was in progress every summer.

25X1

[redacted] most of the training areas were located around the border in the evacuated villages;
